Unhappy Fidel

Fidel Castro is unhappy—again. He said the recent Central American and Caribbean Games, held in Puerto Rico, were rigged against Cuban athletes. Fidel denounced the boxing referees, saying, "Only a CIA agent, only a pirate, only a mercenary would dare defy the most basic rules of sports decorum in wresting victory from the most brilliant boxers (Cuban) in the world." He also accused the CIA of providing a "goodly number of women to flirt with our athletes" and he said CIA agents were disguised as priests to "corrupt Cuban minds."

Despite all this, Cuba won 11 of 21 events and 96 gold medals. But you can't satisfy Fidel—if he can't have everything it's the fault of that bunch in the CIA.
